One goal of the World Peace Concert for the Animals is to help RASTA Animal Rescue Sanctuary procure funds for building a new barn. Their old barn is rotting and becoming a safety concern for the animals. It has no foundation and the structure is falling apart.

RASTA needs to build a larger barn to accommodate over 70 animals, and to store their feed. (The hay and straw bales are currently stored in a carport, and the feed is stored on pallets in the founder's basement).

A barn is an essential part of a Sanctuary, to shelter the animals from cold and harsh weather, provide space for medical treatment, and allow senior and sensitive animals, like birds, to be more comfortable in a heated environment, and also to safely quarantine newcomer or sick animals.

RASTA hopes to build a new barn this summer, but the project is a massive undertaking that requires significant funds ($60K+++). They hope that fundraising efforts will help make this happen.

Please consider supporting their project by attending the concert, and/or by making a tax-deductible donation towards the barn fund. Link to donate to RASTA's barn fund: <https://www.canadahelps.org/en/dn/11752>

The RASTA Sanctuary is a federally registered Canadian charity.
